Mongorama Caused a Heat Wave in Beverly Hills

The moment everyone has been waiting for has finally arrived. The season of outdoor music concerts and festivals got kicked-started at the Beverly Hills Civic Center Plaza with an afternoon of multiple jazz styles delivered by José Rizo's Mongorama and the Beverly Hills High School Jazz Band (under the direction of Bill Bradbury), thus launching the pre-festival free community concert series scheduled every year by the Playboy Jazz Festival's organizers.

"Our Beverly Hills concert has become a popular kick-off for the annual Playboy Jazz Festival season and this year's roster of talent delivered a lively afternoon of upbeat jazz entertainment at the Beverly Hills Civic Center's attractive performing arts venue", stated Richard Rosenzweig, President Emeritus of the Playboy Jazz Festival.

The Beverly Hills High School Jazz Band got the program underway on a cool Sunday afternoon. The band performed a variety of styles and genres, including mainstream jazz, swing, blues, rock, and Latin music.

"The Beverly Hills High School Jazz Band reflects the styles and diversity of jazz itself. We are all excited to be a part of this meaningful musical event in our community," stated Bradbury. I overheard members of the audience saying how good this band was as they performed the following tunes —"Hog Swilling, Rip Snorting, Belly Aching Blues," "Moondance," "Killer Joe," "Rock It," "Sway," "Traces," and "Four." I noticed how many feet were tapping and many bodies were swaying throughout their set.

It didn't take long for the temperatures to rise in Beverly Hills, as José Rizo's Grammy-nominated Mongorama caused the atmosphere to sizzle during the second and final set. A Latin Jazz nonet created to celebrate the legacy of conga legend Mongo Santamaria by playing much of his 1950s-1960s charanga-jazz material Mongorama performs many of the original compositions that brought him into the international spotlight. Propelled by infectiously danceable rhythms and modern interpretations of Mongo's charanga and jazz tunes, the group delivers swinging Cuban-rooted music that motivated many couples to dance the afternoon away in the aisles on this particular occasion.

Mongorama's set consisted of "Bacosó," "Palo Mayome," "Así Es La Vida," "Guajira at the Blackhawk," "¡Qué Maravilloso!" and "Tin Marín." The cast of talented musicians appearing on this gig included the likes of Danilo Lozano (flute/musical direction), Justo Almario (tenor saxophone), Oscar Hernández (piano), Dayrén Santamaría (violin), Alfredo Ortíz (congas), Christian Moraga (timbal), Jonathan Pintoff (bass), and Fermín Sifontes (vocals). Their set featured many tunes from Mongorama's self-titled debut ("Mongorama," Saungú Records). Visit www.saungu.com for more information.

This concert was the first of the Playboy's Jazz Festival Free Community events held in conjunction with the upcoming 34th Playboy Jazz Festival, slated for June 16th and 17th at the historic Hollywood Bowl.

Ohio Receives State Dedication of National Puerto

Rican Day Parade 2012

"Buckeye State" to Shine at World-Famous Cultural Celebration Along New York's Fifth Avenue

The National Puerto Rican Day Parade, Inc. announced that Ohio, "The Buckeye State", has been granted the State Dedication of the 17th Annual National Puerto Rican Day Parade (55th Annual Puerto Rican Day Parade in New York since the event's inception as a local organization).

A delegation of over 90 leaders representing Cleveland, Lorain, Youngstown, Toledo, Columbus, Dayton, Miami Valley, and Cincinnati, among other areas, will march in what is known as the largest celebration of Puerto Rican pride in the world. Leading the delegation will be the Parade's State Marshal, Cleveland's Andres Gonzalez, Vice Chair of the Ohio Commission on Hispanic Affairs, and Director of Diversity and Community Outreach at the world-renowned Cleveland Clinic.

"The National Puerto Rican Day Parade celebrates and raises awareness of Puerto Rican presence, culture and legacy throughout the country. In 2012 we are proud to spotlight the State of Ohio, home to nearly 100,000 Puerto Ricans who make a strong contribution to the State's rich cultural diversity," said Madelyn Lugo, the Parade's Chairperson.

Gonzalez said: "The Puerto Rican community in Ohio has made a great impact in economic and community vitality, higher education and empowerment. We are honored and grateful that our State will shine during the National Puerto Rican Parade 2012 in New York. We look forward to strengthening the partnership with the Puerto Rican Community from New York and nationwide."

The 17th Annual National Puerto Rican Day Parade is scheduled for Sunday, June 10th, 2012, along Manhattan's Fifth Avenue, from East 44th to East 79th Streets. One of the largest parades in the globe, it congregates nearly 2 million spectators and over 80,000 marchers. According to Census 2012, there are 94,965 Puerto Ricans who reside in Ohio (approximately 28% of the State's Hispanic population).

2012 honorees include Hostos Community College President Felix Matos-Rodríguez and Puerto Rico's Inter-American University President Manuel J. Fernós (Grand Marshal and Godfather respectively), Parade Co-Founder María Román Dumén (Lifetime Achievement Award), actress and author Sonia Manzano (New York Godmother), and NFL's Victor Cruz (Athlete of the Year), among other guests. This year's theme is "Puerto Ricans and Higher Education". Puerto Rico's Hometown Dedication went to Guayama (municipality located 38 miles south of San Juan. Population 45,362).

Lugo thanked Lilleana Cavanaugh, Executive Director of the Ohio Commission on Hispanic Affairs, for serving as a major liaison between the Ohio Puerto Rican/Hispanic community, and the National Puerto Rican Day Parade, Inc.

Legendary Hispanic Talent Honored on Forever Stamp U.S. Postal Service's Distinguished Americans Stamp Series Inducts José Ferrer

Multi-talented actor, director, writer, musician and producer José Ferrer's life and accomplishments were commemorated on a First-Class Forever stamp by the U.S. Postal Service as part of its Distinguished Americans stamp series. The stamps, available nationwide, can be purchased online at usps.com/shop, by calling 1-800-STAMP-24 or by visiting Post Offices.

The portrait featured on the stamp is an oil painting by Daniel Adel of Cold Spring, NY, based on a photograph of Ferrer under the art direction of Antonio Alcalá of Alexandria, VA, who designed the stamp.

Ferrer, whose career spanned the worlds of theater, film, television, and music, is considered to be one of the most accomplished talents of his generation and the first Latino to win the Oscar for Best Actor. Ferrer (1912-1992) won several Tony Awards for his work on stage and performed in more than 60 movies, garnering three Academy Award nominations. Arguably his most famous role was that of Cyrano de Bergerac for which he won both a Tony Award for Best Actor (1947) and the Oscar for Best Actor (1950) for his film portrayal of the same role. He remains one of the few actors to ever win both awards for playing the same character on stage and on film.

“Today, the Postal Service is pleased and proud to bestow upon José Ferrer — a groundbreaking Latino movie, theater and television performer and the first Puerto Rican actor to succeed in Hollywood — a new commemorative Forever stamp,” said Marie Therese Dominguez, vice president, Government Relations and Public Policy for the U.S. Postal Service. “Throughout an acting career that spanned more than half a century, Ferrer played a wide range of roles on both Broadway and on the silver screen. His accomplishments extended to many other genres of entertainment. He acted on radio, performed as an opera singer; co-authored a libretto and was a composer. And, as if all this were not enough, Ferrer wrote for theater and television, and directed and produced numerous plays, both on and off Broadway.”

Joining Dominguez to dedicate the stamp were his wife Stella Ferrer; Rafael Ferrer, voice over artist; Theodore Chapin, chairman of the Board of Trustees, American Theatre Wing; John Martello, executive director of The Players; Harold Smith Prince, Broadway producer-director; actors Frances Sternhagen and Christopher Lloyd; and Stephen Kearney, manager, Stamp Services, U.S. Postal Service. The Players serves primarily as a social club but is also a repository of American and British theater history, memorabilia, and theatrical artifacts. Ferrer was a longtime member and received the organizations prestigious “Edwin Booth Life Achievement Award.”

Ferrer’s parents moved the family to New York City when Ferrer was six from Puerto Rico. Always an excellent student, he passed the Princeton University entrance exam at age 15, but was considered too young to attend and spent a year in a boarding school in Switzerland. He entered Princeton at age 16 and graduated with the class of 1933. He conducted postgraduate work at Columbia University with the intention of becoming a language teacher. However, he had discovered his love of acting while in college, and in 1935, made his first appearance on Broadway, a one-line part in the play, “A Slight Case of Murder.”

Mariachi High Opens PBS Arts Summer Festival, June 29

Captures Tumultuous Year in the Life of a Top-Ranked High School Mariachi Band

MARIACHI HIGH documents a year in the life of “Mariachi Halcon,” a top-ranked competitive high-school mariachi band in the rural ranching town of Zapata, Texas. The program premieres June 29, 2012, 9:00-10:00 p.m. ET on PBS (check local listings) as part of the PBS ARTS SUMMER FESTIVAL, a seven-part event anchored by films that highlight art, artists and performances from around the world.

Using the band and its music as a lens, this spirited documentary focuses on Mexican-American teenagers pursuing excellence and finding strength in themselves, as well as a connection to their cultural heritage.

Despite the economic challenges in Zapata and its school district, charismatic mariachi director Adrian Padilla creates a championship-level music ensemble that can compete against larger, more privileged schools from around Texas. The determined students in Mariachi Halcon are not only gifted musicians, but also gifted students –among Zapata High School’s academic top 10 percent. In the past five years, all of the students who spent four years in Mariachi Halcon graduated from high school and went on to an institution of higher learning.

“At a time when Latinos have the highest dropout rate in the country and when arts education continues to be under attack, we found a story of teens who pursue excellence through their cultural heritage despite some very real challenges,” says MARIACHI HIGH producer and director Ilana Trachtman. “This is an exuberant story about ambitious and talented Mexican-American teenagers — whom you hardly ever see on screen.”

MARIACHI HIGH is a film by Ilana Trachtman, Kim Connell and Kelly Sheehan, of Rubylake LLC.

The PBS Arts Summer Festival takes viewers on an exploration of nearly 20 cities around the globe, offering an in-depth look at music, theater, art, architecture and cultural history from some of the world’s unique locations. In addition, PBS stations will be able to insert local content highlighting the arts scene in their markets. Award-winning television, film and stage star Anna

Deavere Smith (“Nurse Jackie,” “The West Wing”) serves as weekly host for the festival, which begins Friday, June 29, 2012, at 9:00 p.m. ET (check local listings).
