A BITE FROM THE APPLE

By Vicki Solá

Percussionist Tomás Martín López has released the CD On The Beat Path, featuring Bill O'Connell, Rubén Rodríguez, Jimmy Branly, Joel Rosenblatt, Matt Finley, Vito Speranza, Iván Renta and Bill McBemie.

"I produced this CD", says López, "with the idea of bringing a continued presence of Latin/Brazilian jazz that's enjoyable to listen to, and engaging enough for the public."

López, back from a world tour with the Grammy-nominated New Swing Sextet, was born in Brooklyn to Puerto Rican parents, in a music-filled home. "Further inspiration", recalls López, "came from living in Puerto Rico as a young child."

As a teenager, he attended the East Harlem Music School, and then studied with Fred Munar, Bobby Paunetto's timbalero. Demonstrating already his proficiency on a variety of percussion instruments, he began playing with various New York salsa bands, and that is when Roberto Rodríguez, Sr. and Tito Allen encouraged him to utilize his vocal talents.

He has performed and/or recorded with Billy Cobham, Mark Egan, Louie Ramírez, Ray de la Paz, Lalo Rodríguez, Paquito Guzmán, Adalberto Santiago, Felo Barrio, Cheo Feliciano, Ismael Miranda, Azuquita, Oscar Hernández, Jerry Galante, and Orquesta Broadway. He has traveled as a musician throughout the U.S., Europe, and Asia.

Percussionist Cristian Rivera remembers climbing on the stove to get to his father's radio on top of the refrigerator. "In high school", he says, "I dug deep into my father's record collection — 78s and 45s of Isaac Hayes, Marvin Gaye, Eddie Hendricks, and Curtis Mayfield. I also found Héctor Lavoe, Tito Puente, Cal Tjader, Ray Barretto, Joe Bataan, and the Fania All-Stars."

Rivera's fascination with the conga drums drove him to emulate the rhythms he heard. "Watching Ray Barretto in 'Our Latin Thing'," he says, "was basically how I learned to play the conga's 'tumbao'. That particular Barretto-style 'tumbao' is the one I use to this day."

A Giovanni Hidalgo concert inspired him to save for a pair of congas. He studied with Johnny Almendra at Boys Harbor, and at the age of 19, after only two years of playing, he competed, along with Pedro Martínez and Samuel Torres, in the 2000 Thelonius Monk Hand Drum Competition, in which he was selected as a finalist. He began to hang out at gigs, videotaping his musical heroes, and then studying the footage for hours. And he practiced six hours daily!

Rivera learned to play Latin jazz while sitting in with Chris Washburne & SYOTOS (and in the big band style, with Bobby Sanabria). He is currently working with Washburne, Jimmy Delgado, and Frankie Morales, while subbing in the bands of Willie Colón and La India. In fact, Rivera has performed and/or recorded with The Latin Giants, Larry Harlow, Richie Ray & Bobby Cruz, Rubén Blades, Hilton Ruiz, Wynton Marsalis, Luis "Perico" Ortiz, Adalberto Santiago, Néstor Torres, The Xavier Cugat Orchestra, Cándido Camero, Justo Betancourt, and Dave Valentín—just to name a few!

The Latin-Jazz Coalition founder, trombonist/composer Demetrios Kastaris has organized a new ensemble: Conjunto Katharí (featuring four trombones and sonero Sammy Navarro) will make its world debut on December 10th, at Flushing Town Hall. His Latin-Jazz Coalition will also perform. This is how Kastaris, aka "El Griego Rumbero" explains it: "Twenty-three artists in the two overlapping orchestras will perform Afro-Cuban jazz, uniquely Puerto Rican salsa and bomba, bebop, Latin gospel music provided by Conjunto Katharí (meaning 'ensemble of the pure and clean'), and Greek folkloric music, in both original and hybrid forms."

Also participating in the concert, billed as "Afro-Cuban Fire, Spiritual Oil and Greek Cooking", are trombonist/conch shell player Steve Turré, and (making his U.S. debut) Yannis Economides, trumpeter and founder of Greece's top Latin band (Aroma Caribe), whom Kastaris describes as "a pioneer and avid promoter of Afro-Cuban jazz in Europe." Fourteen year-old prodigy Theofilos Katechis will treat the audience to the sounds of the bouzouki, a Turkish instrument traditionally used in Greek music.

"After over three decades of tireless work" reflects Kastaris, "the day has finally come for us to bring to fruition a very unique, historic, cultural concert that will hopefully have a profound impact on New York City's music scene. I've always had an immense and profound passion for the genres we'll be presenting in a marvelous blend."

Kastaris is excited about his fourteen-piece Conjunto Katharí. "The power and beauty of trombones captured my attention early on, when I heard the live concerts of Willie Colón and Héctor Lavoe. Their deep influence on us will be noted in our music, with the difference being that the words of Conjunto Katharí are gospel-based."

Around town...

This past October 10th, Orquesta Broadway (featuring guest artists Andrea Brachfeld and Karen Joseph) packed the Tropicana. On November 21st, this Bronx venue will present Charanga America.... The West Gate Lounge's roster includes Tito Rojas (Nov. 6th), and Tony Vega (Nov. 27th). Gilberto Santa Rosa is slated to perform at C.W. Post's Tilles Center for the Performing Arts on November 20th. ¡Hasta la próxima!

LB MUSIC UPDATE

By Nelson Rodríguez

Believe it or not: 2010 is almost over, and we have enjoyed some great music this year, along with some pretty lousy stuff, but the good outweighed the bad. Latin jazz made a late run in the year, and we also saw certain format changes in new music releases (MP3's and small carton CD cases).

The "Recording of the Month" has to be the Spanish Harlem Orchestra's new CD, Viva La

Tradición, which contains one hit after another including, La Herencia Latina, Baila Latino, Rumba Urbana, La Salsa Dura, El Negro Tiene Tumbao (with Issac Delgado), Sí Me Quieres Te Quiero, La Fiesta Empezó and Cómo Baila Mi Mulata. The big surprise here is the replacement of Willie Torres by Carlos Cascante on lead vocals. I had been telling various bandleaders about this great young vocalist who was "discovered" at the LA Salsa Congress some years ago, singing with the band directed by none other than Oscar Hernández.

Yolanda Duke's Many Moods, accompanied by the Tito Puente Orchestra (originally recorded in 2008) is finally out, with the majority of tunes sung by Duke in English, and featuring her duet with José Alberto "El Canario" on "La Peleona". This CD should do well at both salsa and jazz stations.

Coincidentally, El Canario's new CD (El Original) has not hit the streets yet, but I bet it will also do very well when it becomes available, particularly in consideration of the tracks Cada Uno Con Lo Suyo, Unidos, La Calle, Elige Tú Que Canto Yo, and Somos Dos (with Raúlín Rosendo).

Some great CD reissues include Ray Barretto's LP Latino Con Soul, which generated Trompeta Con Trombón (a subsequent huge hit for the Fania All-Stars), and the classic Happy Birthday Everybody.

Ismael Miranda y su Orquesta La Revelación's LP "Así Se Compone Un Son" is also available on CD format, and full of hits such as the title track, "Nicolasa", and "Mulence", "Ahora Si", among others.

My favorite Lebrón Brothers' album, Salsa y Control, is now available in a re-mastered CD format, as well as the Ismael Rivera LP Esto Fue Lo Que Trajo el Barco (which contains the tracks Dime Por Qué and Traigo Salsa).

Son del Salón is a so-called "típico" band (a band specializing in the Cuban son) from France. It's made up of various French musicians and vocalist/percussionist Julio David López Pérez.

Veterans Octavio Figueroa and Willy Cadenas have been playing regularly in Los Angeles with their band (LA Combinación Salsa Band), whose new CD, La Luna y El Toro, is a great salsa dance project. Look for the tunes Trátame Como Soy, A La Memoria del Muerto, La Guarapachanga, and Qué Dichoso Es, in addition to the title track.

The Latin jazz genre has been very fruitful recently. Pianist Daniel Amat's CD Bilbao, La Habana y Vuelta (released on Emerson Bran's new label) features guests Chucho Valdés, Orlando "Maraca" Valle, and Daniel's own father — Pancho Amat. It exhibits a superb display of piano ingenuity by the younger Amat that should garner him many nominations.

Phil Hawkins specializes on the use of steel pans, and his CD Sugarcane Suite — featuring the VW Brothers, Michael Spiro, Randy Brecker, Karl Perazzo, Murray Low and Ray Obiedo — contains several good Afro-Cuban tunes, along with some jazz-influenced music from Trinidad and Brazil.

Throughout the year 2010, we have seen many Latinos recording straight-up jazz, with bits of Latin flair added here and there, and this month I'll add Luis Bonilla's Twilight to that list. As a trombonist and composer, Bonilla excels and exhibits incredible creativity in the straight-ahead style.

Another surprise comes from trumpeter Steve Rusch, who played with many Latin bands in Los Angeles, including a long stint with the one led by Willie Bobo. Back in 1985, during one of his numerous trips to San Francisco, he recorded the LP Serenata, now issued in CD format by Jazzschool Recordings, as part of the Bay Area Jazz Archives. Rusch's 1985 quintet featured Mark Levine, Michael Spiro, Vince Lateano and David Belove.

Giro was a huge star in the 1990s with his classic hit Amor Lunático, and now returns to the music scene with Todavía Hay Amor, a disc that has already scored a hit in Puerto Rico — "Islas En El Mar", featuring la India.

Special mention has to be given to some new young talent serviced to us by Willie Otero's Latinos Unidos Record Pool: Orquesta Mazacote (Salsa Caliente), Orquesta La Diferente (De Frente), vocalists Frederman Franco (Amándonos), Irving Manuel (Todo Mi Amor Eres Tú), Vashti Sivell (Uniendo Mundos) and Moisés González (Relatos).

Add to that list the veterans Rubby Pérez (Genial), Sergio Vargas (Amores Viejos, Nuevos y de Medio Uso), Juan Luis Guerra & 440 (Al Son de Guerra), "Celia Cruz y sus Amigos", Paulo FG (Sin Etiqueta), Huey Dunbar (IV) and Lazarito Valdes & Bamboleo (Vengo a Lo Cubano) for a good mixture of old and new!

DESDE BORINQUEN

Por Elmer González

El pasado mes de abril, el Servicio Meteorológico de los Estados Unidos pronosticó una turbulenta temporada de tormentas y huracanes en el Caribe que duraría desde agosto hasta noviembre del año actual. Sin embargo, tanto los productores de espectáculos como los fanáticos de la música popular hicieron caso omiso de dicho pronóstico ya que en el mes de octubre se realizaron numerosos conciertos de rock, reggae y jazz, además de un festival internacional de trovadores que duró más de una semana.

Claro que las siguientes actividades fueron las que más sobresalieron en el ámbito de la música afroantillana....

MARC ANTHONY REAFIRMA SU POPULARIDAD EN PUERTO RICO. El cantante de origen boricua llamado Marc Anthony se presentó en dos funciones exitosas efectuadas en el Coliseo de Puerto Rico, ubicado en San Juan, durante los días 16 y 19 de octubre.

Como hombre de pocas palabras y de gran manejo escénico en la tarima, Marc Anthony logró desbordar de entusiasmo a sus seguidores, quienes lo acompañaron cantando a coro sus éxitos de siempre, incluyendo a Contra la corriente, Hasta ayer, Aguanile y Te conozco bien, entre otros. De igual modo, interpretó varios temas de su disco más reciente (Íconos), el cual contiene un número que ya es un éxito en Puerto Rico y que se titula ¿Y cómo es él?.

Marc Anthony se desplazó agitadamente todo el tiempo sobre la tarima como si fuese un felino enjaulado, arrancando gritos y aplausos de un auditorio compuesto mayormente de mujeres.

En el primer concierto contó con la breve participación de su esposa, la actriz y cantante Jennifer López, con quien interpretó a dúo la canción denominada No me ames, la cual provocó una ovación notable.

El momento más emotivo se produjo al final de la velada con su vocalización peculiar de Preciosa, una composición de Rafael Hernández que siempre logra despertar la fibra patriótica de los borinqueños.

DANNY RIVERA CELEBRA 50 AÑOS EN EL MUNDO MUSICAL. El cantante Danny Rivera celebró medio siglo de labores musicales con el concierto titulado "Danny Rivera Sinfónico", realizado durante los días 16 y 17 de octubre, en el Centro de Bellas Artes de Santurce. Con el respaldo de la Orquesta Filarmónica de Puerto Rico, el intérprete de Amada amante hizo un recorrido a través de sus éxitos más renombrados ante un público que parecía sentirse hechizado por la nostalgia musical y por los filosóficos comentarios — salpicados de buen humor — que fueron expresados por el antedicho cantante, quien interpretó Mi viejo, Mi árbol y yo, Libre, Jesucristo, y Tu pueblo, entre otros éxitos.

RICHIE RAY SINFÓNICO. El pianista Richie Ray y el cantante Bobby Cruz se presentaron durante los días 23 y 24 de octubre en el Centro de Bellas Artes de Santurce, acompañados por la Orquesta Sinfónica de Puerto Rico bajo la dirección de Roselín Pabón.

Fue una oportunidad singular de presenciar cómo la orquesta de "Los Durísimos" logró integrar sus éxitos salseros a un tratamiento sinfónico, demostrado que lo "popular" y lo "clásico" no tienen por qué ser mutuamente excluyentes.

Por años, los salseros han disfrutado las referencias clásicas que Richie Ray ha incluido en sus solos pianísticos. Esta vez volvió a hacerlo, pero impulsado ahora por un respaldo sinfónico que logró erizar el pelo de una gran parte del público presente.

Sentimos una gran experiencia sensoria cuando escuchamos temas tales como El diferente, Juan en la ciudad, La zafra, A mi manera y Sonido bestial, entre otros.

Ya Richie Ray se había presentado en el mismo lugar, en junio del 2000, como pianista invitado de la Sinfónica de Puerto Rico.

REUNIÓN EN LA CUMBRE SALSERA. Varios artistas del mundo salsero se dieron cita en el Coliseo de Puerto Rico durante el pasado 23 de octubre, auspiciados por una radioemisora local.

Tras una breve aportación de la merenguera Olga Tañón, se presentaron varias figuras salseras que gozaron de gran popularidad en los años 1980 y '90, tales como Eddie Santiago, Luis Enrique, La India y Lalo Rodríguez, al igual que otros que siguen cosechando éxitos actualmente: El Gran Combo, Víctor Manuelle y Gilberto Santa Rosa.
